

Project Description

The project brings residential blocks, commercial uses and landscaped public spaces together within a pedestrian-oriented urban framework. Stepped building masses create different scales of open space while maintaining visual and physical connections across the site.