Elevations

The elevations illustrate the changing scale and façade composition of the housing clusters, highlighting the relationship between building heights, material transitions and the surrounding ground levels.

